

Functions in PHP Functions in PHP are blocks of reusable code, promoting code readability and redundancy function name...can use anything. MAKE SURE NO TWO FUNCTIONS HAVE THE SAME NAME!!! function name(){ Function definition keyword "function" used to denote a function during its definition echo name() calling the function returns function name(){ Parameter, i.e placeholder data echo name() Nothing Numeric String Argument, i.e data supplied to function Boolean Direct calling, no variable needed Array name() Parameter = Given to function when defined $var = name() Argument = Given to function when called